In this month's issue of Upsize Minnesota, an article from Goff & Howard's own Paula Howard tells readers about something that Goff & Howard takes very seriously – providing the best service to clients by giving its employees a great place to do outstanding work.

Extending team-building activities outside the office – such as Goff & Howard's recent employee trip to the Sundara Spa in the Wisconsin Dells – is just one of the many tips Paula Howard provides in Upsize Minnesota about building strong employee relations.

“When people enjoy their jobs and feel valued and respected, they produce good work,” writes Paula.

Goff & Howard follows several simple concepts to help ensure that its employees have a positive work environment that inspires them to do the best work possible for clients. Read more about these tips in Paula's column, “Turn Staffers Into Company Ambassadors.”
