

Great people make for a great workplace

8-27-09

For the third time, the Minneapolis/St. Paul Business Journal has named Goff & Howard one of the Twin Cities' Best Places to Work.

What makes Goff & Howard such a great place to work? Employees' answers range from enjoying our team approach to serving clients, to the support Goff & Howard shows toward our families, to spending time together outside of work.

Yes, we genuinely want to hang out with each other.

“We like to be busy, and we feed off of each others' ideas to give our clients our best possible work,” said Jennifer Hellman, public relations account manager. “Feeling good about our jobs and our team is energizing. As an office, we just click.”

The 2009 Best Places to Work winners will be announced in the August 27 edition of the Minneapolis/St. Paul Business Journal. The publication selected winners based on their employee-friendly work environments, positive attitudes toward embracing new ideas, and other aspects of employee satisfaction.
